BULLETIN #3561

July 14, 2006

Regulatory Resources: Off-line version of the Rule Book

An offline version of the Rule Book is now available on the IDA's website at www.ida.ca to further improve Member access to information. In order to retrieve the document, simply click on the "Rule Book & Bulletins" tab to be redirected to the IDA's Regulatory Resources Management System and select "Rule Book."

The offline version provides users with the option of downloading the Rule Book in its entirety, including associated Notices and Bulletins. In order to download, click on "Downloads" on the toolbar at the top of the page. The system will then prompt you to enter your email address and password (new users must register first). Please note that it is not possible to download individual sections of the Rule Book. When downloading the software, please save the IDA.exe file to your hard drive first when prompted and then run the file to install from the hard drive.

The offline version will be updated once a month as of the last day of the month and will be updated on the IDA's website no later than the 5th business day following the month end.

For further information on the IDA's new Regulatory Resources Management System section of the website, please refer to Bulletin #3546.
